Sonoro Energy provides update on Saskatchewan well

Calgary, Alberta Sonoro Energy Ltd. ("Sonoro" or the "Company") (TSXV:SNV) is pleased to announce that the 14-29-32-23 well has been drilled to the intermediate casing point. The well has been drilled 2 meters into the Waseca formation which was encountered structurally as expected with abundant oil returns seen over the shaker. Clean Waseca Sandstone chip samples were recovered having a strong fluorescence and oil staining.

Sonoro is now in the process of cementing the intermediate casing after which the first of four horizontal legs will be drilled into the Waseca sand, drilling to date has been safely conducted on budget and within the timeframe scheduled.

While these preliminary indications are positive, the results to date can not be relied upon for determining if the drilling results are determined as successful for economically viable production of this well.

The Company will make further announcements as appropriate.

Richard Wadsworth, CEO, commented: "Encountering the Waseca sand as expected confirms our 3D seismic interpretation and increases our confidence in the success of extending the laterals into the structural high of the formation."
